The goal

Our intel states that this facility has a hidden room somewhere. This room is said to hide a great mystery, or some such. We must locate this room and figure out what's inside it.

We have been informed of a potential clue as to the whereabouts of this secret room. The image below should serve as this clue:

Facility information

Guards

Guards will be patrolling the premises at all times. If your companion is spotted, it is very likely that they will be caught. Encounters with them are highly unadvised.

Use the cameras and map at your disposal to locate them, and make sure your companion won't get caught.

Sensors

Each camera in the facility is equipped with a motion sensor device. They will be able to detect the movements of people in the vicinity, allowing you to detect the movements of the guards. The cameras on your map will give an indication when someone is moving nearby in their field of vision.

Hints

First steps

Although your companion has successfully infiltrated the facility, it appears that they are stuck. There is a door with a keypad, which appears to require some code in order to be unlocked.

Our intel suggests that the security of this place is somewhat lacking, and that the personnel tend to carelessly write down important passwords and codes. You should be able to find the code on one of the cameras.

Some strange ball

Rumors mention some peculiar mechanism in the shape of a ball, which must be operated in order to unlock something. It is said to resemble space itself: A black surface with many shimmering stars.

Our best guess is that you need to rotate it around using your hands. It might be worthwhile to check the cameras to find it. Perhaps it will unlock some door that leads to the secret room we're looking for?
